Looking After the Future Prospects of a Valuable Infant.

A HALF MILLION MINOR.

Pitiable Tale of Pugnacity, Cruelty, Drunkenness and Divorce.

MORE ABOUT THE EMMA MINE.

Ten years hence, if he lives, Richard F. Carman will be twenty-one years of age and the unrestrained in-feritor of about half a million dollars. This inherilance comes to him from his father, his grandfather and a trust estate long since created in layor of his father and his father's beirs. The father, Charles E. Car man, died on the 29th of September last, and from his estate, amounting to about two millions dollars, there comes to his infant son about $290,000. Hitherto, since the father's death, the mother of the boy has been the guardian of his person, and the Union Trust Company and United States Trust Company each the guardian of half his estate. By an order made by Judge Barrett in June last, $5,500 is allowed out of the boy's estate to his mother for his board, clothing and suitable education. The order also provides that the boy be kept at a suitable school, and that once a week he be permitted to spend the atternoon with his sister, the only other surviving child of Charles E. Carman In several recent proceedings before the Surrogate in relation to the estate it became necessary to appoint a guardian ad litem for the boy, and to this guardian an allowance out of the estate has always to be made. To avoid repetition of these appointments, and as alleged to save appropriations for such services out of the estate, an application was made on behalf of the mother, to Judge Donohue, in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, to appoint her general guardian of the intant, and thus qualify her to represent him in all future proceedings relating to the estate. This application on the part of the mother was warmly opposed by Messrs, Gerry and Shouel, counsel representing the faughtor. This lady, the only sister of the minor, is twenty-two years of age, is married to a Mr. Gunning, a gentleman of independent means, and shares with her brother in their father's estate. In her affidavit, read in opposition to the motion on the part of the mother, she stated at great length some of the incidents of the family history, the principal facts being that her mother was separated from her father, on an allowance, for some time before his death; that while living, her father had charged her mother with having driven him to destruction by her violent temper and extravagant habits; that her mother and mother's relatives had driven her from her home by her mother's temper and her relations' interference; that her brother has not been permitted to visit her as provided by Juege Barrett's order, but is being prejudiced against her; that he is not properly clothed, having been compolied to wear the same suit of clothes and hat since March last; that he is not properly clothed, having been compolied to wear the same suit of clothes and hat since March last; that he is not properly clothed, having been compolied to wear the same suit of clothes and hat since March last; that he is not properly clothed, having been compolied to wear the same suit of clothes and hat since March last; that he is not properly clothed, having been compolied to wear the same suit of clothes and hat guardian ad litem for the boy, and to this guardian an unatted. Mrs. Gunning also alleges that $2,500 is quite enough for her brother's maintainance at the present time, and for that amount she is quite willing to assume charge of him. Upon this alleged state of lacts Mr. Gerry proceeded to argue to the Court that the motion ou behalf of the mother should not be granted; that her property and income are not such as to enable her to give the Court the necessary security for the minor's property, and the only way she could effect her purpose wotion be to cook up some arrangement with some trust company to give the necessary security in consideration of the alwantage to be derived from holding the funds. He urged the Court, therefore, if it did not appoint Mrs. Gunning the guardian of her brother, to appoint some one who would fully perform that duty to him, see that he was educated in a manner calculated to it him for the intelligent use and care of so large at estate, who would look after his moral wellare and protect him now and prepare him to protect himself in the future against the horae of narphes that everywhere await the lootsteps of a young man growing up to the fruiton of so large an innertance. Connection the mother said he would not tollow his opponent into lannly matters, but much of it was mappineable, as the mother's application expressly stipulated that the estate could remain in the two trust companies where it now was. If at any time to Courtue aired to be satisfied of the condition of the boy and the care he was receiving he would be readily produced for that purpose.

CRUEL AND INHUMAN.

Nine months after their marriage, says Mary Wade in her affidavit, her husband, Thomas T. Wade, began to show aversion toward her, and cruelly and inaumanly treat ner. They were married on the 24 of July 1874, and when his abuse of her began it took the As already stated in the libratus, several and level of the began it took the form of swearing at her, applying to her vile and in-lamous epithets, and hitting her in the face with all his force. On one occasion ne grasped her by the hair of her head, threw her on the ground, heat her, and interpretations. Yesterday, in a suit commenced by Lorin largersoil against Boller to recover $5.321, an order for largersoil against Boller to recover $5.321, an order for the summence was manie by Judge Donoaccused her of criminal intimacy with her own father, brother and cousin. On new year's morning of thi pear he wished her the "compliments of the season," at the breakfast table by harling a glass filled with water at ner head, and on his return home on the same exeming he grasped her by the arm and exercised her up and down stairs with unacceptable violence. About the middle of the same mouth he came home arms and attempted to spar with her after the peculiar syle of Sounern darkies, but she, having no desire to test the thickness of his satil, got out of the way of his catapult. On three occasions the was compelled to have him arrested crimmally for his violence. On the first of these occasions, his father became bonesman for his good behaviour; on the second, he was hierared on a promise to amend, and on the third, she relented and procured him bait hersell. On the lift of May last, her second child was born, and on the day following he attempted to smash the cradide and kick the bed from under her, so that a ponceman had to be called in, when he made his way out of another door. On the sixth day after her continement matters had grown too hot for her further endurance and safety, and sae had herealt and chaluren removed to her mother's, where she has since remoined. Presenting the foregoing facis in her petition to the Court she asks that ner husband shall be ordered to pay her a weekly amount or the support of nersell and her two emidden, together with a reasonable counsel fee. As a baste for the amount to be awarded her she says her husband is the overe of two rented tenement hauses on the year he wished her the "compliments of the season," the amount to be awarded her she says her husband is the owner of two rented tenement houses on the west side of the dry of the value of $15,000. As to any hope of ever being able to live with him again she says it is impossible; that when he is ander the influence of figure he is dangerously violent, and has frequently tried his muscle on his own father. She also alleges that he has contributed to her support but $8 since she was compelled to leave him, she maying be in supported by her father and her mother, and he intreatening to put his property out of the way. Yesterday Judge Donome, in Supreme Court, Chambers, made an order referring the case to J. M. Levy, to take testimony in relation to the amount of the husband's income and the amount of alimony and counsel fee the Court should order him to pay.

Recently it appeared in the HERALD that orders of civil arrest had been issued against Messis. Trenor W Park and H. Henry Baxter, in a suit brought against them by Robert B. Chisholm to recover an alleged claim of $338,000, growing out of operations in th stock of the much hitigated Emma Mine. After the issuing of such orders and before their execution by the Sheriff application was made to Judge Gilbert to vacate them. The motion was granted, and yesterday counsel for the detendants entered the necessary order vacating them, on the ground that they were not authorized by the code in this case. Thus both orders or arrest, which had remained unexecuted, are wiped from the case.

In the suit of Warren Hussey against Trenor W. Park and others to recover some $550,000 which he alleges was fraudulently taken from him by means of certain contracts and agreements incident to the saje of the Emma Mine Company Judge Sanford yesterday directed the plaintiff to file scentily for costs in the sum of $5,500, with leave to apply for more if necessary.

A. Orlando Jackson, a lottery dealer, was yesterday arraigned for trial before Judge Benedict on a charge of sending circulars concerning lotteries through the muil. A short time ago Jackson was before Judge muil. A short time ago Jackson was before Judge Batchford on habeas corpus and his discharge asked for on the ground that the act under which the indictment was found was unconstitutional. The motion for discharge was denied, and Judge Dittenhoeler, counsel for Jackson, took the case to the Supreme Court. When Jackson was arraigned yesterday by awice of his counsel to refused to plead. A plea of not guilty was then ordered to be entered by the Court, and the trial proceeded. No defence was interposed and Jackson was invivided and remanded for sentence. Judge Dittenhoeler professed against the action of the Court in act of the plant of the court of the case tenn on appeal before the Supreme Court of he I hated States.

DAY BEFORE THE BUTTS FOR ALL ARMS OF THE SECOND DIVISION, NATIONAL GUARD.

The Separate Troop cavalry, of the Fifth brigade, sent fifty-eight officers, non-com Separate Troop cavalry, of the Eleventh brigade, had out thirty men of all ranks; the Gatling battery, Second division, appeared on the field with filteen officers, non-commissioned officers and gunners and drivers; and the First Separate Company of infantry (Flushing) of the second division, mustered fitty-five swords and bayonots on the ranges, making a total of 158 officers and men present belonging to all arms. The detachments reached the practice ground at the usual hour in the forenoon, and commenced fring before cleven o'clock. There being no field officer out belonging to any of the corps present, Captain Robinson, of the Flushing company, took command of the whole. Lioutenant Colonel Valentine, division inspector of rifle practice, directed the firing, and Dr. Watt, of the Thirteenth regiment, performed the duties of medical staff officer. There was no guard at the gate, the discipline and order during the day being good. The shooting in the second class was very poor. The practice was in the third class at 100 and 150 yards distance. In this class the Separate Troop, Eleventh brigade, 12; the Guiling battery, 14, and the Separate Company, 34. In the second class, at 250 and 300 yards, the practice was very bad, the only men who qualified there to shoot for the Marksman's Badge being Sergeant Cunningham, 27 points; Corporal Connors, 25, and Corporal Stone, 25. The weather was excellent for shooting throughout the day, and not too warm. SHOOTING MATCH AT HACKETTS-TOWN, N. J.

Ever since the time that Bogardus first introduced glass ball shooting to the public as a source of amusement the lovers of the gun in Hackettstown have been spending their leisure hours in helping to support the glass factories by seeing how many glass balls they could break. They have become so proficient in the art that to-day some of the best shots in the country are to be found in this cosey little village. Among th number may be mentioned Colonel C. H. Valentine George Frazer, D. A. Young, Sylvester Harden and E. Hoover, who comprise the Hackettstown team. Others might be spoken of, but the above named gen-others might be spoken of, but the above named gentuemen are the crack shots.

Yesterday a lew of the members of the club, together with a number of their friends, amused themselves for a few nours at the "Bogardus trap," and during the contest some very fine shooting was induged in. The rules were the same as those laid down in Bogardus' rules for glass bail shooting, and the number of bails was 100. Each man had ten balls to shoot at, and, as will be observed, some of them made good scores.

HARVARD AND YALE.

THE COMING EIGHT-OARED SHELL BACE-HOW THE CREWS ARE ROWING-YALE OFF FOR

SPRINGFIELD. NEW HAVEN, June 21, 1877. It was my privilege last week to see the Harvard crow row. Having enjoyed the same advantage with regard to the Yalo eight since the opening of the season I was able to form a telerable opinion of the relative merits of the two rivals and of their several chances of victory in the coming contest. HARVARD'S RIGHT.

The Harvard men, as they sit in their boat, present a magnificent appearance. Physically they are su-perior to the Yale men, certainly as regards body. Many of them are tried oars, and the fact alone that a portion of them pulled last summer at Saratoga is sufficient guarantee that the race they row will be a plucky one. Their condition appears excellent, and though I saw them later in the day after a long pull they did not seem at all distressed. One thing is certain. If this crew rows in perfect style it will detest Yale through sheer bulk and preponderance of muscle. The stroke, however, is not by any means as perfectly pulled as it might be. The recover is not even, each man coming forward his own way, and the feather is very ragged. There is such a tremendous lift on the boat, coupled with a rather too rapid slide, that it sinks at the end of each stroke and occasionally rocks. Elbows and heads throughout the post are held at pleasure. It the wind is up there is apt to be much splashing on the recover. It seems to be the prevailperfect other things will take care of themselves, and that each man should be allowed to row his own way. The working of this rule is seen in the Harvard bont, Whether it is a good one the 29th will show. The catch is undeniably good, every oar getting a firm grip of the water at the start. The rig of the boat is essen tially English, the men sitting about thirteen inches at, however, and Harvard's giants, with their great endurance, may get away from Yale at the start and keep the lend. The condition of the Yale men is good, though there is still a single tendency to fineness. The substitute will promably do his share of the work at Springdeld, afterding those who appear to be hard pushed a chance to rest. No. 3 still tips his onr a little, and No. 4's elbows are a little out of the boat at times. No. 8's chin prorudes now and them, though the tault is much loss obtrustive than it has been. Occasionally the slide is a little burried, but this is only once in a while.

casionally the slide is a little burried, but this is only once in a while.

Yesterday a steam hunch to follow the crew while practising arrived from New York. It goes on to Springfield, where it will be used before and during the race. It has been bred through the generosity of a Yale graduate of '63. By the way, the Yale crew starts for Springfield to-day. They will occupy their old quarters on the west side of the Connecticut River.

NEW YORK ATHLETIC CLUB.

OPEN HANDICAP GAMES AT MOTT HAVEN-THE EVENTS AND ENTRIES,

The second of a series of open bandicap games, termined upon by the New York Athietic Club at the beginning of the season, will be held on the grounds at Mott Haven to-morrow afternoon. Four events are on the card, and each has filled with so many good performers that interesting struggles must result. A run of 100 yards leads the amusement with twenty-five names, these being divided into five trial heats. Many of the entered are known as sprinters of merit, and the handicapping has been done with such care that it will take a very "knowing" man to pick the winner. After the trial heats are run the one mile walk will be decided. This has eighteen on tries, and among the number are those who have time and sgain beaten scores of well tried opponents. That rare pedestrian, T. A. McEwen, is at the scratch. Following the walk come the second trial heats of the 100 yards, after which the speciators will be treated to the decision of the trial heats in the 440 yards run. Twenty-three names appear for this event, which are divided into three heats. The three mile walk is the next feature, and has twelventiries. Then follow the final heats in the 100 and 440 yards run. Should the weather be pleasant it is fair to assume that these events will be witnessed by an immense number of people.

The men will be called to the scratch in the first heat of the 100 yards run at half-past four o'clock. Boats leave Fulton ship at 2:25, 3:15 and 4 F. J., and Peck ship at (2, 2, 3:20 and 3:50 P. M., while those who wish to go by train can leave the Grand Central Depot at 3:30, 4:05 and 4:30 P. M. and sgain beaten scores of well tried opponents. That

THE TALLY-HO.

There was an unusually large crowd in front of the Brunswick yesterday morning, and it presently transpired that Mayor Ely was going to make the trip to along the sidewalk a lew minutes before ten, and the passengers quickly took their seats. There was a full long, and among those present were Mayor Ely, Mr. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Livingston, Mr. George F. Henderson, Mr. Rodman and others. At ten A. M. sharp the guard shouted "All right!" and, the grooms juniping away from the heads of the leaders, the team started off, with Colonel Delancey Kane holding them well in hand. The drive out was very pleasant except over the latter portion of the route, where the road was so heavy that the horses had to do some hard pulling. Mine host of the Huguenot was in great delight at the presence of His Honor the Hayor, and gave them all a capital dinner. Coming home everything passed off very pleasantly, and when they arrived at the Brunewick, as usual, at four P. M. processey, Mayor Ely expressed himself very much peased with his drive. The change of route or the Tally-Ho is much regrested by the people residing along the road to New Rochelle, as Colonel Delancey Kane had become very popular, and the blast of the horn as they passed through the different villages used to bring every one to their doors to give a pleasant wave of the hand to the passing coach. Colonel Kane himself regrets very much that the learful condition of the road compelled him to make the change. The last trip to New Rochelle and return will be made on the 4th of July, and then the Tally-Ho will lay over until the morning of July 9, when she will start from Yonkers, returning the same alternoon at ball-past four P. M. from the Brunswick. This change is for the benefit of summer travel, and will also make quite a pleasant trip for New Yorkers to drive out in the ovening and return next morning. shorp the guard shouted "All right!" and, the grooms

COACHING IN ENGLAND.

[From the Land and Water, June 9.] Twenty-one coaches met at the Magazine on Wednes-day. A good number for the club, considering that many of the members have no teams in town. Colorel Clitheroe is helping Freeman on the Brighton. Another old road coachman, Captain W. H. Cooper, and Lord Cole, were busy judging at the horse show, while the master of the Bramham Moor preferred to look on among the spectators. Of the other regulars, Lords Carington, Wenlock, Muncaster, Macduff and Mr. Eaton were absent. The Marquis of Waterford Mr. Eaton were absent. The Marquis of Waterlord made his first appearance at these meets, and as it taking warning by the sail late of Lord Carysfoot, he took good care to keep his reins unneckled. He had an extremely well matched team of grays—200d, sound, useful horses—and a new coach. Lord Londesborough was the only whip who trusted his team without bearing-reins, but it was graifying to see that nearly all of them except Count Munster's and Mr. Adrian Hope's had their heads pretty free. It is rather hard to spot colors at a casual glance, but the teams were about as under:

Lord Bective, who had been stopped coming along Piccaduly, was just in time to the in at Hyde Park Corner. The roate was past the runs of the Knightsvirige Barracks, on through Kensington Gardens and out into the Kensington road, where some of the conches filed, while three adventurous spirits drove on toward Twickenham; but the Marquis of Waterford soon changed his mind at the approach of ram, fer he had a load of ladies up, and came back, and Mr. Hope in turning had his off leader put hors de combat by a growier, so that his drag went home as a pair.

The meet was, all round, not so good as usual. The teams were in individual cases below the average, and the shortness of the parade, the gloomy weather and relinquishment of the Orieans drive and duner deprived the gathering of that old social character which made it formerly more a convival meeting of friends than a pack parade. The pick of the teams for match and appearance were Sir H. Tuiton's, Lord Setton's and Captain Whitimore's. Perhaps, for road work, Colonel williams' and Lord Aveland's might have held their own.

OUR COMPLAINT BOOK.

[Nora -Letters intended for this column must be insure attention. Complainants who are unwilling to comply with this rule simply waste time in writing. Write on only one side of the paper .- En. HERALD.]

OBSTRUCTIONS IN NINTH STREET.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :--I have already seen several complaints in reference to the many carts, wagons, &c. in Ninth street, be-tween First and Second avenues, but no notice has been taken of them. Are those whose business it is to see that they are removed in the country? If not, why do they not do their duty? It is not likely that the nursance would be allowed twenty-turn hours in TAXPAYER.

WEST TWENTY-SECOND STREET.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-I beg to call the attention of the authorities to the condition of West Iwenty-second street, especially be-tween Ninth and Tenth avenues. The tar pavement which was put down here has worn away, leaving great holes, and by the assistance of the sprinkling cart staguant ponds are formed, which will breed pes-tilence unless our City Fathers give this their prompt attention B. O. E.

THE WOES OF FIFTY-SECOND STREET.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:live on foul air and bad smells. First, we receive the Hunter's Point stenches; second the slaughter house smell, and now, third, a gentleman was kind enough to build, to the inconvenience of the neighbors, a smokehouse in the rear of Nos. 300, 302, 304, 306 East Fifty-second street, compelling us to keep the windows closed, unless we want to be suffocited.

A SUFFERER, live on foul air and bad smells. First, we receive the

THE MADISON AVENUE CARS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-

Will you please let me know whether the Madison avenue cars are obliged to stop for passengers? I bailed a car of the above line on the 17th inst at Madson avenue and Seventy-second street and the driver is on avenue and Seventy-second street and the driver did not stop, but replied jeeringly. Another incident of the same sort happened to me again on the 19th inst, at Madison avenue and Seventy-second street. I haided the car, but the driver did not stop, and went down at rapid speed. I told some of my friends of this and they sad the said cars must have been behind time. I would like to know whether they must stop for a pussenger when hailed whether behind time or not.

CENTRAL PARK OFFICERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-In Monday's HERALD I observed two complaints in regard to the conduct of the officers in Central Park. Allow me to give you my experience. On Sunday I visited Harlem and there picked a lew flowers. On my return my wife wished to walk through the Park. At the Seventh averue entrance the flowers were caught from her hand and crushed before our eyes without any explanation being given, and when I demanded the officer's number or name he refused, saying I might apply to the sergeant. I have written that worthy a letter which he does not have the courtesy to answer. I have, however, made a complaint to the Commissioners of Parks. The intrinsic value of the flowers was nothing, but the indignity was very great.

SCHOOL NO. 10. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-

I desire to call attention to the partiality in school No. 10, Female Grammar Department. The late Hon. of the most amiable graduates, to be voted for by the class only; but in this case the selections are made by the principal, who made the remark a few days since, whoe she heard the parents' complaints, that she was better able to judge who the amiashe girls are. But her idea of amiabinty is partiality to her friends. The deserving girls are rejected, while those who have utterly latied in the examination at the Normal College for examination, and of the entire number only nine were able to stand the test. A portion of the nine successful candidates she has signted by not giving them any part or honor at the graduates' reception. As several of them have since resigned from the school, please inform me whether the principal can withhold diplomas from these girls? class only; but in this case the selections are made by

TO THE ELITOR OF THE HERALD:—
In the name of the thousands of suffering invalids in this beautiful but noisy city I appeal to you to abate a nuisance, which is really a crying one to us. I allude to the practice of removing the ashes in the night. I the city, and in this hot weather compelled to leave the windows open, to whom the present practice is a source of untold misery. Last night, as usual, I was source of untold misory. Last night, as usual, I was awakened, near midnight, I believe, with the terrible racket, and, for what seemed half an bour in my nervous state, pandemonium reigned supreme. The heavy carts were started, with the drivers' load ""("pup!" "G'up!" "" "Then came the thundering rattle of the lumbering cart for the distance of a house; then "Whoa!" "Whoa!" and the barrel or box was empitied as noisily as possible and thrown down with a terrific crash, and the routine repeated from house to house. Two wagons collected at the same time on opposite sides of the street, and when not otherwise engaged the men filled up the time by shouting to each other. By the time they leave the block my betwee are so excited by the repeated snocks that it is often hours becried by the repeated snocks that it is often hours before sleep comes again, and many times not at all for that night; and I know this has been the experience of others with whom I have conversed. Collections in the morning and evening have been objected to it consequence of the flying ashes; but surely this trifling annoyance, which can be easily avoided or brushed off, should not weigh against the ceaseless and wholly needless misery thus nightly imposed upon the many weary invalids, whose blessings you will gain if you will but espouse our cause and enable us once more to eujoy "tired nature's sweet restorer" and rise in the morning refreshed and eager for the perusal of our layorue Herald, instead of too tired to "care whether school keeps or not."

DRESS REFORM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-Having given much thought to the subject of male dress—though I must confess that it was mainly on personal grounds-I hall with pleasure the initiative taken by Messrs. "Pluma" and "ludorser" in your columns. The fact that I viewed it as a personal mater does not detract from the merit of my thought, for that which would conduce to my health and comfort and well being would act similarly toward others. be glad of a chance to meet the gentlemen above named, for the purpose of exchanging ideas with named, for the purpose of exchanging ideas with them with a view toward bringing about the desired result. As suggestions thereupon would be premature at present I sak merely a few linos to expose my objections to our present style of dress. What race on earth, except the Caucasian, is willing to swathe itself, as we do, in garments which are uply, which afford no protection to the extremes of temperature, which impede our motions and which are positively unphysiological? Who in New York to-day wears a hat which offers protection against the perpendicular rays of the sun? Why, one cannot think of our most reasonable head covering without a headache being the unavoidable accompaniment to the thought. What right have we to rail against woman's head goar, which, though not serviceable, has at least beauty in its favor? Then our coats and vests—do they keep us cool in summer or warm in winter? But that exquisite abomination, the shirt, with its outrageous starch, crowns all tortures which abominate fashion exacts from us. What serves to raise our choier more than our collar? And our nother garmonis—do they not make us veritable panta-lunaties? Yes, down to our very shoes we are clad with but the triunate intention of making ourselves uncomfortable, unhappy and unhealthy. I feel conflicte that a movement toward abstement of this nuisance would succeed if agitated and conducted sensibly. Housands are waiting for she initiative to be taken, so that they may break loose from the tortures which custom now imposes without exposing themseives to the senseless ridicale of the apet of fashion. My profession quite justly forbids my publishing my mane hereto; however, I subjoin it in confidence to you, to be given to Messra. "Fluma" and "Indorser," with whom I will combine my efforts toward bringing about the desired result should they desire it.

ANSWERS.

THE POOR TENANTS. To the Editor of the Renald:for aid. Where are our Windsor, Amaranth, La Fa-vorita societies? Let them come forward and give a closing performance of the season in aid of these poor tenants. S. June 21, 1878.

THE HARLEST BATH.

To THE EITOR OF THE HERALD :- JONE 20, 1877. I wish to contradict an issue of Wednesday. June 20 in which Truth says, "A number of young girls and ladies, who were bathing in the Harlem free bats, at 114th street, East River, saw two or three men poering through the blinds from the upper part of the bath house." There is no truth in it whatever, in the first place, no male is allowed to go up stairs except the keeper to light the gas and get a drink of water; and, in the second place, we have no blinds on the bath house. On Monday evening he did not stay up there more than two minutes. No bath house in the city is conducted in a more proper manner. CHARLES E. B. COFFIN, Supersideness.
